

Climate Change and the Initiatives of the Japanese Non-Life Insurance Industry

Kunio Ishihara

President

The Tokio Marine and Fire Insurance Co., Ltd

September 1991

Typhoon Mireille (Typhoon No.19)

(Insurance Industry paid approximately
570 billion yen [or approximately
7.1 billion US dollars] on claims)

What Can the Financial Services Industry Do to Advance Environmental Protection?

⇒ It can promote the taking, or offer the choice of environmentally considerate actions by businesses and individuals through all its functions such as finance, investment and compensation.

The Characteristics of the Non-Life Insurance Industry

- Risk Management
 - Broad Client Base
 - Global Network for Loss Data
- ⇒ Focusing on promotion of awareness of environmentally considerate actions by businesses and individuals.

Size of Areas Targeted for Each Country

Sum Total of 3,000 Hectares

2,572 hectares achieved in March 2003

● Union of Myanmar
600 hectares (505 hectares)

● Kingdom of Thailand
500 hectares (416 hectares)

● Republic of Indonesia
650 hectares (508 hectares)

● People's Democratic Socialist Republic of Vietnam
900 hectares (813 hectares)

● Republic of the Philippines
350 hectares (330 hectares)

Countries Implemented

ACTMANG: Myanmar, Vietnam

OISCA: Thailand, Indonesia, Philippines

● Areas planned for reforestation
Bracketed numbers reflect the actual level of reforestation achieved by March 2003.

