

Emerging Markets Equity Process for UNEP FI

Citigroup Asset Management Limited

April 2004

Presented by
Erda Gercek, Country Strategist
Citigroup Asset Management Ltd

Investment Philosophy and Objectives

Philosophy

- We see stock prices as a function of valuation, earnings surprise and country risk
 - Valuation succeeds as stock prices tend towards equilibrium over time
 - Surprise results in re-evaluation of consensus forecasts
 - Country risk determines discount rates
- We believe that consistent performance can be achieved by applying disciplined and repeatable investment processes, supported by in-depth proprietary research.

Objectives

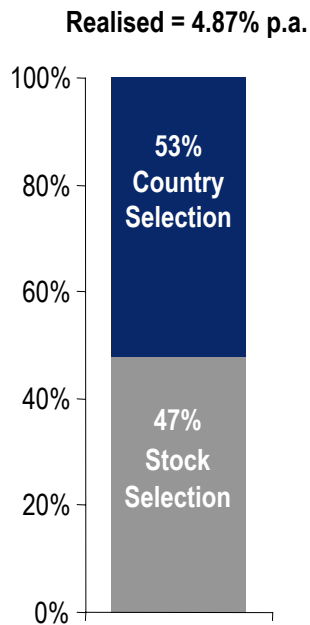

- The investment team aims for a target excess return of 4% per annum versus the MSCI EMF Index over a market cycle, subject to a maximum tracking error target of approximately 8%

IV. Investment Process and Portfolio Construction

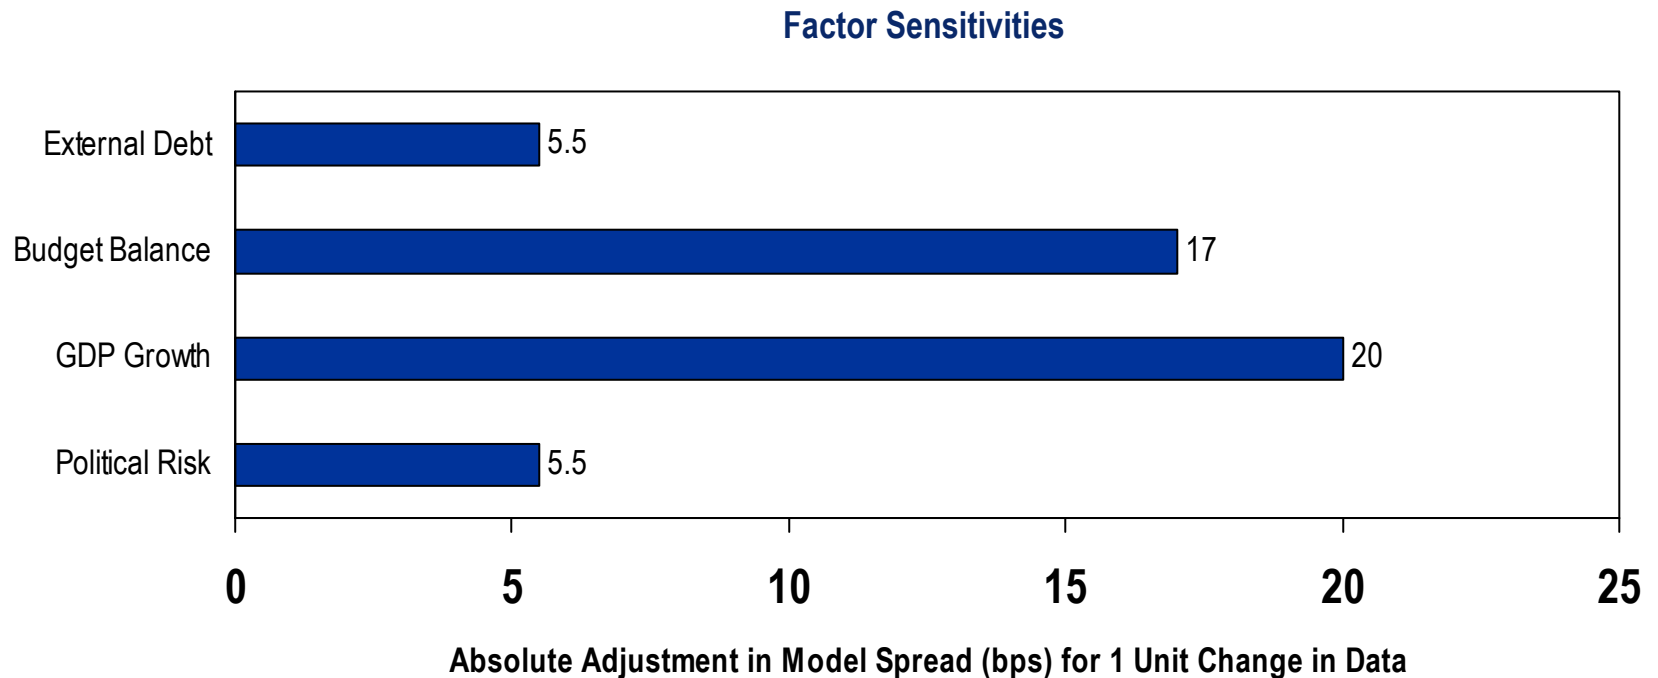

Investment Process Summary

Role 1: Define Country Risk Premium

Country Strategists Estimate Country Risk Premium

- Estimate country risk premium for individual markets based on proprietary estimates of statistically significant factors

Source: Citigroup Asset Management Research. For illustrative purposes only. Please see endnotes for additional information. The above represents a set of factors that serve as input into a model to calculate Country Risk Premium. Factor sensitivities as of Feb-2004. These factors affect the Country Risk Spread in direct proportion as shown.

Definitions of factors: External Debt: Country's External Debt as % of GDP; Budget Balance: Country's Budget Balance as % of GDP; GDP Growth: Country's % Annual GDP Growth; Political Risk: an increase in the Political Risk Index means an improvement in the political situation.

Step 1: Define Country Risk Premium

Different Risk Levels in Emerging Markets Are Systematically Recognised

- Country Risk Premium for all key emerging markets are determined and incorporated in Company Level DDM Valuation
