Dialogue
Sustainable Development

- A simple concept of balance:
  - ‘People, Planet and Profit’
  - Requires commitment, capacity and a strategy to get from policy to action
Sustainability, CSR and Citizenship

- Sustainable Development
  - Formal, documented definition
  - “Development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs”

- Corporate Social Responsibility / Citizenship
  - Undefined, open to interpretation
  - Putting a ‘human face’ on sustainability
  - “…values and activities that companies engage in to… support the sustainable development of their communities”
Commitments

- UN Environment Program Finance Initiative

“... we consider that sustainable development depends in the positive interaction between economic and social development, and protection of the environment, making this an equilibrium of interests between present and future generations”.

We also consider that sustainable development is the collective responsibility of governments, companies and people. We are committed to working in cooperation with these sectors, within the market mechanisms framework, towards common environmental goals.

We consider that the identification and quantification of environmental risks should form part of the normal process of evaluation and risk management, both in domestic and international operations.”
Commitments

- UN Global Compact (UNGC)
  - 10 principles that enjoy universal consensus, derived from:
    - The Universal Declaration of Human Rights
    - The ILO’s Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work
    - The Rio Declaration on Environment and Development
    - The UN Convention Against Corruption
Commitments

- Credit Suisse Sustainability Policy (extract)
  - We anchor the principles of sustainability in all the relevant policies for business areas and functions.

  - We take measures to ensure that our employees recognize their environmental and social responsibilities and act accordingly.

  - We want to be an attractive proposition for investors who base their investment decisions on sustainability criteria.

  - We attach great importance to the Sustainability Policy being taken into account in all environmentally and socially relevant decisions.
