Strengthening our climate ambitions

As the global framework and gold standard for sustainable banking, the Principles for Responsible Banking continuously evolve in line with increasing ambition and new goals humanity defines – such as the new Global Agreement on Biodiversity. At the last Principles for Responsible Banking Board Meeting in 2022, signatories made the important decision to strengthen the definition of the Principles' climate ambition to specify that signatory banks, in accordance with the Paris Agreement, are expected to align their portfolios with a 1.5 degrees pathway. For banks operating in developed countries, this includes achieving net-zero emissions by at least 2050. Read more
